A Reminiscence of 20 Years Ago.

[From the S. F. Call of Feb. 24.]

On a pleasant, balmy day in the year 1858, I happened to be a passenger on the old ferry boat "Contra Costa," which then made her three regular trips per day between the big city of San Francisco and the little town of Oakland. It was the middle or noon trip. We had left the wharf on the Frisco side, and the boat was about midway between the city and Oakland bar, opposite Goat Island. I stood on the upper deck watching the ponderous walking-beam of the low-pressure engine, and listening to the regular drumming of the paddle wheels as they revolved and the buckets struck one after another into the deep, green water. All nature seemed to be doing its best to make the day beautiful and enjoyable. The hills and mountains of the Oakland side were covered with rich green verdure and flowers of all the different hues of the rainbow. On the lower deck of the steamer were little groups of men gazing out toward the shore. Close up in the bow of the boat stood a small team of horses, hitched to an express wagon, which was loaded with bundles and packages of various kinds. On the seat of the wagon sat a young man apparently about twenty-two or twenty-three years of age, busily engaged in noting down in a memorandum book his various business engagements for the day. His clothing was that of a laboring man, consisting of a blue flannel overshirt, pants of coarse material, the legs of which were encased in a stout pair of "stogy" boots, and on his head he wore a rather broad-brimmed black hat, which fitted well down over his face, and from under which protruded a profusion of silken dark-brown hair. The face was entirely devoid of any beard, and was as smooth as that of a girl. A long, thin nose denoted shrewdness in its possessor, and a pair of dark-blue eyes, slightly inclined to gray, looked fearlessly into your own when they were turned toward you. The square, finely cut jaw indicated great firmness of character. In fact, the face was one that most people would take a second look at when meeting its owner for the first time. He was well known to all on board of the boat as a quiet, determined young fellow, who was always ready to fight for his friends, and as equally ready to forgive an enemy. And he had many friends, for he had been through many a tough set-to in protecting the helpless weak against the tyrannical strong.

On the starboard side of the boat leaning with his back against the rail that was placed across the forward gangway, was a lad of about twelve years of age. He was a light-hearted, merry little fellow, with eyes beaming with the mischievous sport of boyhood, and was a great favorite with the Oakland people, to whom he was well known; and he was fairly idolized by his father and mother. Full of youthful exuberance, the youngster could not remain quiet, but kept pushing with his back against the rail. Suddenly a cry of horror went up from the throng of passengers. The rail had lifted from its place, and the little fellow, who had stood there a moment before full of life and buoyant enjoyment, fell with a piercing shriek backward into the deep waters of the bay. All was confusion on the instant. A simultaneous rush made to the side of the steamer, and passengers fearing that the boy would be struck by the paddle wheel and torn into pieces. But so terrible a fate was not to befall him. Luckily, he fell just far enough from the vessel's side to escape such a horrible death.

The bell was instantly rung to "stop her," then "back her." While this was being done, the quick, stern voice of Captain Ned Lewis was heard ordering the forward boat to be cleared away. The order was promptly executed, and the boat was swung outward over the rail of the steamer, ready to be lowered at a signal from the Captain. By this time the headway of the steamer had carried her a long way past the struggling boy. As soon as the vessel had come to a standstill the boat was lowered into the water, the tackles unshipped, and the steamer commenced backing in the direction of the lad, who was now farther astern. In the hurry the men had forgotten to put the plug in the drain-hole in the bottom of the boat, and she began to fill rapidly with water. A hasty search was made for the plug, but it could not be found, and one of the thole pins was used as a substitute. This left them nothing but the plain gunwale to work the ore upon. For all the benefit the steamer's boat was likely to be in the emergency, the boy might have been drowned.

The steamer by this time had backed up to within about fifty yards of the drowning boy, who was doing his best to keep his head above water. "In the name of God, why don't that boat get there!" exclaimed the excited passengers: "the boy will sink before they reach him!" "Clear the way there," said a low, quiet voice; "clear the way, and I will save the youngster." All looked toward the speaker. It was the expressman. He was stripped of his hat, shirt and boots. A resolute look shown out of his now wide-awake eyes. All made way for him. Rushing forward through the throng, he seized a small gang-plank that was lying on the upper deck, dragged it to the side of the steamer, and with a quick dexterous movement, threw it over the side into the water, and plunged over headfirst after it. Quick as a flash he rose to the surface, grasped one end of the gang-plank and struck out toward the boy, pushing the float ahead of him. "Keep up Jimmy; keep up a minute more and I will be there," exclaimed the swimmer encouragingly. When in a few feet of the little fellow the expressman observed the boy was about exhausted, and almost ready to sink, and with a renewed effort, he increased his pace, and came up to him just in time to save him. A wild狂 of delight went up from the passengers on the steamer as they saw the little fellow clinging to the gang-plank, supported by the strong arm of the gallant expressman. The small boat soon came up and took them aboard the steamer, where both received the congratulations of the passengers. The boat was hoisted on deck, and the Contra Costa continued on her way to the Oakland side.

The little boy is now a six-footer, his name is James Howard, and he is the son of Volney E. Howard, a prominent lawyer of that part of the State. The expressman's name was Harry N. Morse, who is now, and has for the last fourteen years, been the intrepid Sheriff of Alameda county.

Mail Facilities.

We hope that another winter will find Sierra, Plumas and Modoc counties in the enjoyment of their rights in regard to mail facilities. Those rights will establish direct lines to Reno and bring the business of those sections to our thriving town. We have heard from each of these counties, and in each case the mail routes are now laid over impassable roads. In Modoc county the mail travels by way of Susanville in a roundabout way and through a section which is all but impassable in winter. When a perfect, natural road is open to use which would save half the distance. The Sierra valley mail must go at irregular times on hand sleds, over snow banks and mountains, when a perfect valley road is open the year round. The Plumas mail must climb the Sierra Nevadas, where connection is perfectly feasible without attempting the snow mountains and avalanches of that region. We are informed that Congressman Wren, in trying to secure increased mail facilities for Nevada, finds it next to impossible, owing to the policy of extreme economy and retrenchment which characterizes the department at Washington. It is false economy which lets contracts to climb mountains where natural roads are available, and we hope Mr. Wren will persevere until success is won. Luttrell, of California, promised aid in this matter, but he has not given it, and Wren ought to win much praise by a zealous use of facts afforded in these cases.

Mail Robbers.

Deputy Sheriff Harville informs us that United States Commissioner J. H. Windle is holding a preliminary examination in Elko, in the case of Doc Bell and two other men, who were brought before him by officers Al. Nuckles, upon a charge of robbing the mail near Cherry Creek last Fall. The Eureka Republican of Saturday gives the following particulars regarding their arrest, etc:

The warrant under which Sheriff Sias, as Deputy United States Marshal, arrested George Wilson and Doc Bell for participation in the stage robbery, at Cherry Creek last September was issued by Joseph H. Windle, Commissioner of United States for the district of Nevada, residing at Elko, where the prisoners are to be taken for preliminary examination. The offense was committed by five persons near the beginning of last September. Three persons, supposed to have been engaged in the robbery of the passengers and mail at that time, are now in confinement, one Donnelly having been arrested at Wells. The case was worked up by A. G. Sharp, Special Agent of the United States Postoffice Department, and the papers were issued on his complaint. He says he has a sure thing of convicting the three arrested. Sheriff Sias will take the two prisoners to Elko sometime between now and Monday.

The great and good Duncan is now before the bar of justice and is feeling very poorly. He admits that he has not done anything wrong, and with a candor which does him honor states freely that he is sorry for what has happened. He did not want to go to jail, simply because his family had certain prejudices against jails, and if Duncan would have known that he felt no malice towards anybody he is willing to admit that the public mistake he has not been intentional, and when he gets to banking again he will not punish anybody for mistakes of the head.

James Gordon, now finding that his reputation for enterprise is waning, raises his right hand aloft and swears that he will hang his hat on the north pole. For this purpose he will equip a vessel with many sticks in command, and a great many sticks will be set up in the Herald office.

Daddy's Dollar

Once More Stands Elect—The Silver Bill Passed Over the President's Veto.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—At 1:40 the Speaker laid the veto message before the House, and perfect order having been secured, appointed a clerk, who read it. The President says it has been his earnest desire to concur with congress in the adoption of measures to increase the silver coinage of the country, but so as not to impair obligations or contracts, public or private, nor to injuriously affect the public credit. It was only on the conviction that this bill did not meet that essential requirement, that he felt it his duty to withhold from it his approval.

The message further states that the capital defect of the bill is that it contains no provision protecting from its operations pre-existing debts, in case the coinage which it creates shall continue of less value than that which was the sole legal tender when they were created. In the judgment of mankind it would be an act of bad faith. The standard of value should not be changed without the consent of both parties to the contract.

The national promises should be kept with unflinching fidelity. He could not sign a bill which would authorize the breaking of sacred obligations. The obligation of the public faith and credit certainly transcended all questions of profit, or public advantage. Its unquestionable maintenance was the dictate, as well of honesty as of expedience, and should ever be carefully guarded by the executive, by Congress, and by the people.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—3 P. M.—The Silver bill has passed the House over the President's veto, by a vote of 196 to 73.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Senate at 4 o'clock passed the Silver bill over the President's veto, without debate, by a vote of 56 to 19.

Fares and Freights.

The Winnemucca Silver State wants to make the question of regulating the charges of railroads the leading local issue in the approaching campaign. There are some evidences that this issue may figure quite prominently, particularly as the Supreme Court of the United States has recently decided that the subject is one strictly within the power of State Legislatures.

The above is from the Eureka Sentinel, whose editor is a State Senator from Eureka, and, unless elected to represent the State in Congress, will be a member of the next Legislature. Now to encourage or discourage the idea of making the question of regulating railroad charges the leading local issue in the next campaign, will the editor of the Sentinel give his views of the question. He generally speaks right out on every question of interest to the public, and it is to be hoped that he will do so on this. That the discrimination in charges, which enables San Francisco merchants to ship goods through Nevada to tide water at less rates than they are delivered at Elko, Winnemucca or Reno, ought to be prevented by legislation, will scarcely be disputed, except by the railroad company, and it is difficult to name a popular measure that they are not prepared to dispute and oppose.—Silver State.

Congress has lately received a committee Report, which argues ably and at length in favor of National laws in regard to inter-State commerce.

The California Legislature is now also considering the question of legislation upon the subject of fares and freights. Altogether it looks as though a campaign under that banner would prove quite successful.

One Hanna, in the California Legislature, is heard to advocate a bill which prohibits any man from paying in more than a bit at a time for liquid at any bar. The Enterprise editor says it is a "bill to prevent treating" and approves it, thus generously giving himself credit for having lost money by treating. There are a great many honest people who would like to correct intemperate habits but don't know how to go to work at it. And that's what ails Hanna.

Several Duncanites are on trial in San Francisco for aiding Joseph in his attempted flight to Egypt. $6,000 of the dollars of our daddies was the price and they seek to prove that J. C. Merrell was the man. And since these trials commenced if you meet a rich San Franciscan and ask after his health, he says, "I decline to answer on the ground that it might implicate me in a felony."

Ever since New Hampshire sat down W. E. Chaudier, that revelator has been extremely silent. He has no proofs and the only ones we have received thus far have vindicated his position as a knave and paltron.

During the German Crown Prince's recent visit to Rome he took the young Crown Prince of Italy in his arms and kissed him. This simple action has made a great sensation in France, where it seems to be considered a political demonstration.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Jottings.

The lightning train was two hours and a half late last night.

The Baptist concert to-night at Reno Opera House.

Dalpus Sutro, the Assyrian, went below last night.

The school-masters of Huffaker District vote to-morrow on proposition of a $500 special tax.

Richard Nash has been seriously ill with pneumonia. Convalescent.

The mail route to Sierra Valley is so "miry" that the contractor takes one letter at a time from Truckee, and all letters bearing two stamps will have to remain until the road gets better in the Spring.

Mrs. Noyes desires us to state that she feels very grateful to her friends for their marked kindness to her during the sickness and funeral services of her late husband.

Mr. D. H. Jones, of Virginia City, and Crit. Thornton, of Eureka, were in town to-day.

Three emigrant coaches containing the mongrel festives passed westward this afternoon.

Spring is upon us, and its first day could not be more pleasant. The winter has been most favorable with us, although severe all over the Coast.

One hundred and ninety-five bars of silver bullion passed up this morning to the Carson Mint.

Ah Chuey.

Sheriff Lamb informs us that Ah Chuey, the Celestial made notorious by Ah-las Cowie and Ah woe Breen, was captured yesterday afternoon at Wellington's station, 50 miles from Carson City on the road from Carson to Aurora. Chuey will remain in Virginia City to the close of the trial of Breen, Cowie and Ah Dock. Then this Celestial chunk of iniquity will be removed to our county jail and be tried at the next term of court.

We hope that the arrest made at Wellington may not prove as the one at Dayton did, not the man. Ah Chuey, it was ascertained, had, in every probability started for Bodie or Aurora, hence there is every probability that the right man is in the hands of the officers. His trial here will prove one of special interest, since, if the State has no bad luck, Ah Chuey will swing. He has a record, at all events, as black as an Egyptian night, and his crime in this city would cause the fields of purgatory to shudder at the diabolical deed.

NOTE FROM SURPRISE.—Mr. Copersmith, of Surprise Valley is in town to-day. He made the trip from the south end of the valley to this place in three and a half days. He says the roads are very good for the most part.

The Susanville road to Surprise is almost impassable, and the mails, in consequence, are very irregular, and often more than a week behind time. We suggest that the people of that section get up another petition to Congress, declaring that this Northern mail route, by the circuitous way of Susanville, is the only practicable route during winter. The fact is that it is often nearly impassable during the winter months, whereas the route by Fish Springs may be traveled at any season of the year. Mr. C. says that there has been much snow and rain in the valley, and that this year's crops will be larger than ever.

TRAIN LATE.—This morning's express train did not arrive in town until 11:18 A. M., or four hours and eighteen minutes behind time. The cause of delay arose from the breaking of the eccentric stop to the engine of the West-bound overland, at or near Strong's Canyon, between Truckee and the Summit. The overland remained at the canyon until the damage was repaired, or another engine came to its relief. The express was detained at Cascade in consequence. All the other trains were on time.

This afternoon we were shown a very rich specimen of gray copper from the Belvelhammer mine, in the Pearine District. The specimen shown us weighs 165 pounds, and will be sent to the Paris Exposition. It assays about 50 per cent. copper and about $30 silver to the ton. Captain Griffin says "There is more where that chunk came from." This sample may be seen at Jas. Toombs & Co.'s, under this office.

Letter from Bodie.

From a letter from a Renoite who has lately gone to Bodie, written under date of February 26, we glean the following items of interest in reference to the new mining camp:

Bodie has a population of 1,500, about 600 of whom are out of employment, and of which latter number not over 250 would work could they find work to do. There are in the town 17 saloons, five stores, two livery stables, six restaurants, one paper, four barber shops, two butcher shops, one fruit store, four lodging houses, two boot shops, one tin shop, one jewelry store, one saddle shop, two drug stores, three doctors, four lawyers, postoffice, express office, 15 houses of ill-fame, one bakery, two blacksmith shops, two lumber yards, two daily stage lines, the usual secret societies and a miners' union. Lots are worth from $100 to $1,000. Lumber sells at $70 to $100 per thousand feet. There are six or seven good mines, and about 700 locations for mines. Of course nearly every day new locations are made. There are also two twenty-stamp quartz mills, which turn out about $40,000 each per month. The average number of new arrivals per day is ten. In the Spring everybody looks for lively times in Bodie. The roads south of Carson are not as bad as one might expect, yet no one would care to drive over them were he on a pleasure trip. Many persons in Bodie are elated over the prospects of the camp, while others in speaking of it use language wholly unbecoming a Christian. The writer says: "I would advise no one to come here now who expects to earn a living by labor alone, or by prospecting. Those who have money and desire to go into business here may just as well come now, and perhaps it would be better than to wait until summer. What may be the result of this new mining excitement, of course none can tell. There will be, beyond doubt, a great many disappointed people; a few will make a strike, a very few, perhaps, a fortune. Pat Hogan is doing well, and if the summer work proves according to present indications, he will make several thousand dollars. Dr. Snow is here, and has opened an office for the practice of medicine. We have now three feet of snow in the town."

The case of John Laffin, was called to-day in the District Court, and when all were ready for a square set-to with evidence and law, John arose and plead guilty to an attempt to commit arson. Judge Wright will pass sentence upon him to-morrow morning. This afternoon the cases of the two Wadsworth Chinamen who committed grand larceny at Wadsworth and also broke jail, came up for trial. The case continued too late for us to get a report of it for to-day's issue.

CONCERT TO-NIGHT.—The Baptist Concert given this evening at the Opera House, promises to be a very pleasant affair indeed. The members and friends of the church have made extensive preparations for a concert exercise etc., which shall prove interesting. We therefore take pleasure in bespeaking a full house for this evening's entertainment. To-morrow evening the change of programme will be nearly complete. Admission 50 cents.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of a complimentary ticket to the grand ball of the V. & T. employees, to be given in Carson, March 14th. We shall take much pleasure in attending, for we know just how hospitable those rail-roaders are.

CARD OF THANKS.—We the undersigned, wish to tender our thanks to Mr. J. A. Brannock, City Agent and John A. Marshall, City Agent of the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Company of San Francisco, for the highly satisfactory and unprecedented manner in which the representatives of the above named Company have settled their portion of the loss which we sustained at the late fire on Frisbie's corner. We take great pleasure in recommending the Home Mutual Insurance Company to the insuring public for honest, square, and high-toned dealing.

DISAPPOINTED.—By Laffin's confession this morning a number of our citizens were disappointed. They had in anticipation the pleasure of listening to one who possesses "the eloquence of c. Cicero, a memory as retentive as Richelieu, and a brain as large as Webster's, and who will 'in twenty years from date be one of the greatest statesmen in the United States.' But Laffin got wind of the fact that this Bane Ranger intended to ring in on him, so he confessed. Shrewd man, that fellow Laffin. It is severe on a poor unfortunate criminal to have a rising statesman hurl Ciceronian eloquence at him, and that same eloquence flow from a Richelieu memory and a Websterian brain. We do not believe Judge Wright would have allowed it. Honorable Cain, the colossal luminary of the law, who protects the State in this county, and who, as Justice Buller has said of another in his Herculean legal labors that "Principles were stated, reasoned upon, enlarged and explained, until those who heard him were lost in admiration at the strength and stretch of the human understanding"—yet District Attorney Cain even dreaded to place himself in comparison with the greatest future statesmen of the United States. Seriously we understand that Crit. Thornton is a young man of promise and a good lawyer for one of his study and experience.

CARD OF THANKS.—We the undersigned, wish to tender our thanks to Mr. J. A. Brannock, City Agent and John A. Marshall, City Agent of the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Company of San Francisco, for the highly satisfactory and unprecedented manner in which the representatives of the above named Company have settled their portion of the loss which we sustained at the late fire on Frisbie's corner. Montgomery Blair announces his intention to write a history of the administrations of Jackson and Lincoln, in order to put his father in his true position respecting the great events and men of his day.

Miss Nelson has arrived in London, her health much improved by her holiday sojourn in the south of France. The rehearsals of Shakspear's Twelfth Night had commenced vigorously at the Haymarket.

M. Leoco's new opera, entitled Le Petit Due, and just produced at the Paris Renaissance, is represented to have made a most favorable impression. The libretto is from the pens of MM. Melihac and Hally.

Four great nephews of George Washington have asked Congress to purchase from them, for the government, a large number of relics of our first President. They ask $12,000. Professor Henry recommends the purchase.

A curious commentary on national gratitude is afforded in the fact that the daughter of the famous French General Kieber is living in Baden at the age of eighty-two, dependent for support on the charity of the Russian consulate, having for years vainly solicited aid from France.

ROMAINE GOLD.

SO EXTREMELY WORN IN PARIS,
was first discovered in 1870, by the celebrated French chemist, Mons. D. Be Dage, who manufactured it into jewelry, and for five years sold it to the leading jewelers of Paris for Solid Gold. In 1875, when his secret became known, ten of the manufacturing jewelers established a stock company, with a capital of $100,000 for the purpose of manufacturing Romaine Gold Jewelry and Watches. With this immense capital and the aid of improved machinery, they are able to produce all the latest patterns of jewelry at less than one-tenth the cost of solid gold, and of a quality and color which makes it impossible even for experts to detect it from the genuine.

We have secured the exclusive agency of the United States and Canada, for the sale of all goods manufactured from this metal, and in order to introduce them in the most speedy manner, have put up assorted sample lots as given below, which we will sell at one-tenth the retail value until January 1st, 1878. The list is from the pens of
